As an international businessperson, you should learn the customs of any place you are doing business. You don't want to arrive at the wrong time, insult someone, or lose a deal because of your inappropriate behavior. Here are a few suggestions if you go to Chile or Egypt. Let's start with Chile.

First of all, timing is important. When should you go? Never go in January or February. Chileans usually take vacations in those months, so you'd better not plan your trip at that time.

Next, greeting people is different in different countries. How should you greet people at business meetings in Chile? People usually shake hands when they first meet. Later, at business receptions, men sometimes greet other men with hugs, and women hug and touch cheeks while kissing the air. It shouldn't surprise you to get a hug or kiss from a Chilean.

Then when you eat, you should keep your hands on the table, not in your lap. Finally, if you're invited to someone's home, finish the food on your plate. It shows your appreciation for the meal.

Now let's turn to Egypt. In Egypt, you should not expect to do business on Fridays. It is the Muslim day of rest. Also, throughout the Arab world, people use both the Islamic calendar and the Western calendar. To avoid confusion, you should put two dates on paperwork—the Islamic date and the Western date.

If you're invited for a meal, you should eat with your right hand and leave a little food on your plate. It's a sign that you are full. Also, you'd better not add salt to your food or you might insult the cook.

These are just a few dos and don'ts when doing business in Chile and Egypt. Remember, before you go to another country to do business, read about the culture and remember the saying, "When in Rome, do as the Romans do."

- 1 What are good times of year to go to Chile?
 - A December and January
 - B February and March
 - C November and December
- 2 When you are eating meals in Chile, you had better NOT _____ because it might be rude.
 - A eat with your left hand
 - B hug men or women at any point
 - C put your hands in your lap when eating
- 3 According to the article, which is true?
 - A Egyptians work on Fridays.
 - B Egyptians add salt to their dishes at restaurants.
 - C Egyptians write Islamic and Western calendar dates.

There are two beautiful U.S. cities named Portland. One is in Maine, and the other is in Oregon. Maine is on the East Coast of the United States, while Oregon is on the West Coast. Both Portlands have ports, but Portland, Maine, has an ocean port with beautiful ships, shops, and restaurants. This port is more popular than the Oregon port. Portland, Oregon, at 173 feet above sea level, is higher than Portland, Maine. Both cities are not very big, but they are bigger than any other city in their states. Portland, Maine, has a population of about 66,000. Portland, Oregon, is much larger, with a population of about 620,000.

What's your guess? Which Portland is colder, Portland, Oregon or Portland, Maine? Did you guess the Portland in Maine? If so, you are correct. Portland, Maine, is a lot colder in winter. But both cities have comfortable climates in summer.

Portland, Oregon, is a city with different neighborhoods with different personalities. It's much more diverse than the other Portland. But Portland, Maine (founded in 1633), is much older than Portland, Oregon (founded in 1845).

You may wonder why the two cities have the same name. There's a reason. Each of the two founders of Portland, Oregon, wanted to name his new city after his hometown.
