READINGPART 3

Read the transcript of the weather report. Then choose the correct answers.

Weather reporter: Good morning, everyone. If you plan to be outdoors today or Sunday, wear a warm jacket and bring an umbrella. The weather will continue to be bad. Today will be cold and windy, and it may snow in the evening. Starting tomorrow morning, the snow will become rain. For your Monday morning commute, there may be flooding on the highways. So, if you can, take public transportation. But the weather will be milder on Monday, with a high of 60 degrees and clear skies, and we may even see some sun. For Tuesday and Wednesday expect more sun and high temperatures. The high temperature on Wednesday might get to 70 degrees. But the nice weather won't be here for long. By Thursday, the weather will become cooler with 90 percent chance of showers.

1 Why does the reporter suggest taking public transportation?

- A because there will be a lot of snow
- B because it will be too windy this weekend
- C because there might be a lot of water on the roads

2 It's possible that there will be sun on _____.
