PART 2Choose the correct answers to complete the paragraph.

How do you decide the best place to live? There are so many things to think about. First, there shouldn't be (1) too much / too many / enough traffic. You don't want to spend all your time in your car. If you don't have a car, check the public transportation. Too (2) few / little / much buses and subways make it difficult to get around. Also, big cities can be expensive. You should make (3) too much / too little / enough money to live there. On the other hand, small towns can be boring. If there aren't (4) too few / enough / too much fun things to do, you might not want to live there. How's the weather? Hopefully it isn't (5) too / too much / enough cold in the winter, unless you like cold weather. Finally, there should be (6) enough / too many / too few hospitals and schools. That may not seem important now, but it might be in the future.

READINGPART 3*Read the blog post. Then answer the questions.

Wow, I love living in a small town! I'm so busy that I haven't had enough time to write a blog post until now. I moved to Bar Harbor, Maine a couple of months ago. I came from Los Angeles. There is always something fun going on in Los Angeles. I was afraid Bar Harbor might be boring. I didn't think there would be enough good restaurants, or fun things to do. Small towns are not exactly known for being cosmopolitan. I was so wrong!

There is a lot to do in Bar Harbor. Actually, there are almost too many things to do. There are enough outdoor activities to last a lifetime, such as hiking and swimming. I don't have enough time to try them all. The restaurants are incredible. The seafood here is excellent. I think there might even be too much seafood, because some cafés sell lobster ice cream. It is not very good.

My friends in Los Angeles said there might be too much unemployment in a small town like this. However, a lot of tourists come to Bar Harbor, so there are enough jobs for everyone in the museums and restaurants, and on the beach. The tourists come here from all over the world, so there are enough people to make Bar Harbor interesting. Yes, sometimes there are too many tourists, but just when it gets too crowded, summer ends.

- 1 Why does the writer like Bar Harbor?
 - A It is similar to Los Angeles.
 - B There are too few fun things to do.
 - C There are a lot of outdoor activities.
- 2 What did the writer's friends worry about?
 - A Bar Harbor might not have enough jobs.
 - B Bar Harbor has too many outdoor activities.
 - C There are not enough good restaurants in Bar Harbor.
