REVIEW TEST: UNIT 33GRAMMAR*PART 1

Choose the correct answers to complete the text.

We go now from hot to cold: all the way to Antarctica. Temperatures there were –120 degrees Fahrenheit, or –84 degrees Celsius today. But the weather doesn't stop scientist Chuck Malone from working there.

During the winter, it's too dark to see your hand in front of your face. But, with the help of electricity, it's (1) too light / enough light / light enough for him to see. When it's very cold, like it was today, it's (2) enough / too / way cold for him to go outside to do any work, so he works inside. The heaters keep him (3) too warm / as warm as / warm enough, but not warmer than he needs to be. He needs a humidifier, too, since it's (4) very dry / as dry as / dry enough there. Antarctica is (5) enough dry as / very dry / as dry as a desert. In fact, it is (6) drier than / as dry as / too dry the Sahara Desert—the two places get the same amount of rain/snow each year. If you're interested in traveling to the South Pole, it's possible, but it's (7) as / too / more expensive for most people. The trip costs around $40,000, so most people can't go.

READINGPART 3*Read the email. Then choose the correct answers.

To the staff at Hotel California,

I recently stayed in your hotel for two nights with my wife, and we had a terrible experience. There were a few problems. We would like to share these with you so that you can improve your hotel services.

The temperature in our room was too cold for our first night. We complained to the front desk staff, but they couldn't fix the problem. So, we asked for another room on the same floor. But the new room was as cold as the first room! There was a problem with the air conditioning on that floor, so they moved us to a new room. After a few hours of changing rooms, we finally got a room that was warm enough. However, we spent too much time moving rooms, so we missed our dinner reservations at Angelique. (Those reservations are very hard to get!) We asked for our money back for the first night, but the manager said that is was impossible. He was very rude, and didn't even give us a free breakfast!

The next day did not start very well. The hotel breakfast was very expensive but not very good. The buffet did not have enough bacon or sausage. When we asked for some more, the waiter said there wasn't any left. No bacon or sausage at a breakfast buffet! But we still had to pay full price! Both my wife and I thought this was crazy.

The rest of the stay at your hotel was fine, though we didn't eat at any of the hotel restaurants again. We hope that you will improve your services.

Sincerely,

Paul Phair

WRITINGPART 6

People sometimes don't have good experiences at restaurants. Imagine you went to a restaurant called The Riverfront Grill, and had these thoughts about the experience:

- Food – not hot
- Service – slow
- Price – high
- Portions – small
- Drinks – not cold
- Made a reservation, but waited an hour for a table

Write an email to the restaurant's owner to complain. Use too, enough, very, and as . . . as in your email.
