

UNIT 17 REVIEW TEST LISTENING SCRIPT

- Lauren: What should we make for breakfast?
- Steve: I'll eat anything. I'm starving! We must have some food that we can make.
- Lauren: OK. Let's see what we have... Well, it looks like we don't have much food. I see a few eggs and some cheese. Actually, it doesn't look like there are enough eggs for two people. Maybe we could make a small omelette?
- Steve: Do we have any butter?
- Lauren: Ehh, no. There isn't any butter. I guess we won't be making that omelette. But we do have lots of vegetables. We've got some mushrooms and some onions. We don't have many bananas, but there are a lot of blueberries. And we've got some yogurt. We could have a healthy breakfast with all these things. What do you think?
- Steve: Not interested. How about I run to the store across the street and get some things to cook with?
- Lauren: What a wonderful idea.
- Steve: Great. Let's keep things simple. I'll buy enough eggs for two big omelettes, and I'll also get several bananas so we have enough for today and the next few days. Is there anything else we need?
- Lauren: Just one thing: We need more butter, and that's it.
- Steve: Then I'll get a little butter, too. We can finish everything we have this morning and then go to the bigger supermarket later for the food that we need for dinner.
- Lauren: Great. And one last thing before you go... Coffee!?!
- Steve: How could I forget! Let me check. Well, there aren't many beans left either. I'll pick up some of that, too.
- Lauren: Excellent. Hurry back, I'm getting hungry talking about all this food.
