

NAME _____ DATE _____

REVIEW TEST: UNIT 30GRAMMAR*PART 1

Write the correct words from the box to complete the conversation. There are two extra choices.

am not supposed to eat	was supposed to get	not supposed to have	was supposed to call was not supposed to get	was supposed to arrive	were supposed to pick	are supposed to eat

George: Sorry I'm late. I know I (1) _____ here a while ago. I had car trouble.

Collin: No problem. But where's Javier? You (2) _____ him up, right?

George: Yeah, we were going to come together, but since my car wouldn't start, I took a taxi instead.

I (3) _____ him and tell him to take a taxi too, but I didn't. I feel bad.

Collin: That's OK. I'll call him right now.

Haru: Hey, George! Did you just get here?

George: Yeah, just now. I (4) _____ at 6:00, but I'm here now. Sorry I'm late.

Haru: Well, get something to eat. And don't forget to try the pork and cabbage.

George: Why? Are they traditional New Year's foods?

Haru: Well, Collin said we (5) _____ them. They bring good luck and money through the year.

NAME _____ DATE _____

George: Well my doctor told me I'm (6) _____ some of those foods because I'm a little sick. You enjoy.

PART 2

Choose the correct answer to complete the sentence.

- 1 You am / are / is supposed to show your ID before you enter the building. They won't let you in otherwise.
- 2 Dan was / is / will be supposed to hand in his assignment yesterday, but he forgot to.
- 3 When you are in Korea next week, remember that you were / are / will be supposed to take off your shoes in people's homes. It's very rude if you don't.
- 4 Fred wasn't supposed / was supposed not / was supposed to be here at 6 p.m. I told him 7 p.m.—he's been waiting for an hour for you to get here!
- 5 You wasn't / aren't / won't be supposed to leave without saying goodbye to the host! That's extremely rude! Go back in and say goodbye!

NAME _____ DATE _____

READING

PART 3

Read the book review. Then choose the correct answers.

You're in a new country, with a new culture, and different customs. You meet someone for the first time. What are you supposed to do? Should you shake hands? Bow your head? What do you do when you meet them a second time? For many people from English-speaking countries, the answer is simple: you're supposed to shake hands. What about in Northeast Asia? Or how about in the Arab world?

In a new book released last week, anthropologist James Tirone discusses these customs. He looks at what we do in today's world, and provides a lot of insights to the past. He explores the handshake, an ancient Greek way to show peace, and follows the way it's changed over the past 2,500 years. More interesting to this reader is Tirone's chapter on the head bow. In that chapter he describes a custom that has existed all over the world for centuries. It has different uses in different places and in different situations: A woman is not supposed to bow her head to the Queen of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, but a man can, but nobody is supposed to shake hands with her. In Islamic countries, people are definitely not supposed to bow to other people, but they can bow when in prayer. In East Asia, most people bow when you meet and say goodbye, and it's also common when you make an apology.

Tirone further explores the things people aren't supposed to do. Why is chewing loudly OK in some places, but extremely rude in others? See his chapter on table manners. Pick up the book—it's an interesting read.

- 1 According to the review, bowing to people is not OK in _____ countries.
 - A English-speaking
 - B Islamic
 - C Asian
- 2 When meeting the Queen of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, you _____ shake her hand.
 - A are not supposed to
 - B do not have to
 - C can
- 3 Which sentence can reasonably be inferred from the review?
 - A You cannot shake hands in Asian countries when you meet someone.
 - B Women and men are supposed to greet the Queen in the same way.
 - C Cultures have similar gestures, but different ways of using them.

NAME _____ DATE _____

LISTENINGPART 4

Listen to the conversation between Taiki and Kevin. Then choose the correct answers.

- 1 Which of the following best describes Kevin's attitude about customs?
 - A He thinks learning customs can be difficult.
 - B He is uninterested in Japanese customs.
 - C He dislikes hugging people when meeting.

- 2 Why does Taiki bring up hugging in Japan?
 - A because Kevin often hugs people when he first meets them
 - B because he is confused about customs in the U.S.
 - C because Kevin asks him about Japanese culture

- 3 According to Taiki, in Japan, you are not supposed to _____ when you meet someone.
 - A shake hands
 - B bow
 - C hug

- 4 Which of the following can reasonably be inferred from the listening?
 - A Taiki doesn't mind hugging people when they first meet.
 - B Taiki thinks it's good to hold doors open for others.
 - C Taiki likes to learn about different cultures.

- 5 According to the listening, which of the following is true?
 - A You can use a few different expressions when greeting someone in Japan.
 - B You should not hug when meeting people for the first time in the U.S.
 - C You are supposed to hold doors open for people in the U.S.

NAME _____ DATE _____

SPEAKINGPART 5

Imagine: A Canadian friend of yours has been invited to a dinner party in your country. What does he/she need to know? What should he/she do to be polite? Leave a message on their voicemail telling them about your country's customs in this situation, emphasizing the most important things (not) to do. Use supposed to in your voicemail. Consider:

- Time to arrive
- What to bring
- How to greet people he/she doesn't know
- What to do at the dinner table
- What to do when he/she leaves

WRITINGPART 6

Think about a time when you acted inappropriately, in your country or in a foreign country. What did you do? How did others respond? Did you have to apologize? Do you now know what to do if a similar situation happens again? Write a paragraph about the event. Use supposed to.

NAME _____ DATE _____
