READINGPART 3

Read the short passage about UFOs. Then choose the correct answers.

Unidentified Flying Objects—or UFOs—are a subject of mystery. What are they? Where do they come from? Are they even real? Americans seem to have a lot of ideas.

A recent poll suggests that 20 percent of Americans believe that UFOs come from another planet. "They must be flown by aliens," says Katherine Hiller, a respondent who was interviewed in the poll. "They can't be made by people. They are too strange and move too fast. We don't have that kind of technology yet."

Others believe that the government is responsible. "It's got to be the government," says Pedro Alvarez. "The government spends a lot of money on research. I don't think the technology is from aliens," he added. Many others agree. "Could it be aliens? Sure!" says Emilia Townshend. "But it's more likely to be humans working in secret." Reginald Williams asks, "Who has enough money to spend on secret airplanes or whatever these UFOs are? It has to be the government!"

Still there are others that don't believe in UFOs at all. "Despite many reports of UFO sightings, there still may not be enough evidence to prove that they are real," says sociologist Jack Li of the University of New Jersey. "Nearly all UFOs are later proven to be airplanes or strange weather." He suggests that people might just be seeing what they want to see, ignoring the evidence of what's real.

Whatever the reason for UFOs, one thing is certain: Everybody has an opinion. All respondents were interested in sharing their opinion.
