Out of This World

- Rohan: This is Enid Rohan, reporting from Spaceport America. Lyn Filipov is in the training program here for a flight with YourSpace, Inc. She's going to fly to the edge of space very soon. So, Lyn, which flight are you taking?
- Filipov: The one that leaves on March 30. By the time I purchased my ticket, the earlier flights were all sold out.
- Rohan: What's the training like?
- Filipov: Well, at 110 kilometers—that's 68 miles—above the Earth, there won't be any gravity, so we're practicing moving around in zero-g. It's an incredible feeling—like floating in water, or flying. You feel really free.
- Rohan: Aren't you even a little scared?
- Filipov: Right now, I can't wait to go. I'm pretty sure I'll be terrified on takeoff, but it'll be worth it. Totally.
- Rohan: You're very young. How does your family feel about this?
- Filipov: I'm not that young. I'll be 23 next month. But my parents are nervous, of course. My mother is really afraid I'm going to love space travel and I'll want to keep doing it. And my younger brother is jealous.
- Rohan: What do you say to make him feel better?
- Filipov: My brother? He wants a career in space travel, so he's going to study a lot harder from now on. That's what he says, anyway.
- Rohan: Thanks for the interview, Lyn. And good luck!
- Filipov: Thanks. I'll send you photos.
