

UNIT 8 REVIEW TEST LISTENING SCRIPT

Interviewer: Well, Mark, Robert, thank you for agreeing to be part of our study. Our institute is researching twins who were separated to learn about the effects of nature versus nurture. So, how did you find out about each other?

Robert: Yes, I'm Robert Hartley, 62 years old. I was adopted by a family in London and uh, last year I saw a video of a Scottish singing group online. It was Mark's group. It was like looking into a mirror. Well, I couldn't wait to get in touch.

Mark: My name is Mark Kinghorn. I was adopted by a Scottish family. And I never knew I had a twin until last year when Robert called me. And now, I've moved to London and we live together.

Interviewer: And, can you please talk about some of the things you have in common?

Mark: Lots of little things: the way we laugh, the way we sit down. And, big things. I sing in a folk music group and he does, too. Actually, we formed our own band together. And, uh, Robert likes to eat healthy foods. So do I

Robert: No, you don't. Do you call pizza healthy? We do both love to cook though.

Interviewer: OK, and now how about differences?

Robert: Well, he likes going out at night, but I don't. I prefer to stay home and read a book. We had a big fight about that once, but Mark: I mean, there's so much to do in London. How can you just stay in? Well, we worked it out. We go out on the weekends and on weekdays, we stay in. We always work things out the two of us. We get along very well.
