READINGPART 3*Read the article. Then choose the correct answers.

Ousmane Diop's career so far can be best viewed as a series of important turning points. The first of these was his decision to join Manchester United rather than Chelsea in 2008. Even though his agent had secured him a great deal to join Chelsea, he chose to join Manchester United because it was his childhood dream to play for that club. Joining Manchester United led to him switching from the winger position to striker. He was confident in this position and it led to a very successful period for him and the team as a whole. Looking back on this period, Diop has often mentioned that choosing Manchester United was hugely important for him. He recently commented that if he hadn't joined Manchester United, he wouldn't have developed as much as he did. Becoming a striker enabled him to approach each game in a new and exciting way.

The second turning point came in 2011 when he had an accident in a hotel swimming pool while on holiday in the Maldives. He slipped on the edge of the pool, and broke three bones in his foot. This injury resulted in him not playing for Manchester United for six months. In a recent interview he said that he often felt depressed and angry at himself during this period and that if only he hadn't been running around the pool, the accident wouldn't have happened. After a brief return to Manchester United, he had further problems with his foot. These injuries led to him being sold to Fulham—a move which resulted in a two year period of personal and professional setbacks.

The third turning point was his trip to Rwanda in 2013 for his work as a UNICEF Goodwill Ambassador. He said in a 2014 interview that the work he did there, and the children that he met made him think deeply about his life and about the meaning of success. Having already become rich and having won several trophies and best player medals, he now wanted to do something even more meaningful and rewarding. So, in 2015 Diop founded Kickoff.org. Since then, the organization has helped thousands of children from war-torn countries by raising funds for new schools, building sports facilities in poor villages and arranging for talented young soccer players to attend academies in the U.K. Now, 32, he has retired from professional football so he can devote his full time to the organization. It's clear that Diop gets a great amount of satisfaction from his work with Kickoff.org, and it looks like the organization will continue to do great work long into the future.

- 1 This passage is taken from _____.
 - A a short history of Fulham Football club
 - B a profile of Ousmane Diop's life and career
 - C a summary of Ousmane Diop's childhood in Somalia
- 2 If Diop hadn't injured his foot, _____.
 - A he would have joined Chelsea
 - B he would not have played for Manchester United
 - C he might not have joined Fulham
- 3 If Diop hadn't done work for UNICEF in Rwanda in 2013, he wouldn't have _____.
 - A injured his foot
 - B founded Kickoff.org
 - C joined Manchester United

SPEAKINGPART 5

Read Anna's diary entry. Then talk about how her day would have been different if each of the following things had not happened.

Monday

Oh! Today was just awful. An absolutely terrible Monday. First, my alarm broke in the middle of the night so I woke up 30 minutes late. I was running to the bus stop when I tripped and and fell. My hand landed on my cell phone and smashed it. Now, I couldn't call my boss to tell her I would be late.

So anyway, I didn't get to work on time. Because of this my boss was pretty angry with me. She called me into her office and told me she was disappointed in me (because it was the second time this month I had been late). My boss then said "Since you are in my office I'd like you to meet Charlie, he's our new social media manager." I couldn't believe that it was Charlie! Charlie, my ex-boyfriend who I hadn't spoken to for two years since we had a huge argument and broke up. Anyway I was so shocked to see him that I dropped my hot coffee all over my foot and then had to spend two hours in hospital getting my foot bandaged.

So as I said, what a terrible day! Well, at least tomorrow will be better than today. It has to be, right?

- Alarm clock breaks
- Wakes up 30 minutes late
- Trips, falls, and damages cell phone
- Arrives late and boss is disappointed
- Meets Charlie
- Drops hot coffee on foot
- Spends two hours in hospital

WRITINGPART 6

Write down three of the biggest turning points in your life so far (e.g., choosing your major, getting married, moving to a different city). Then, write about what would have been different about your life if these three things had not happened.
