

NAME _____ DATE _____

REVIEW TEST: UNIT 28GRAMMAR*PART 1*Rewrite the words to make sentences or questions.*1 don't / she / know / is / I / where

_____ .

2 the restaurant / sells / pizza / if / do / you / know

_____ ?

3 not / sure / or / he's a doctor / if / I'm not

_____ .

4 needs / she / can / her / to / you / tell / what _____ do?

5 idea / no / her car / has / says / she / stole / who

She _____ .

6 how / get / explain / to / you / to me / would

_____ there?

PART 2Choose the correct answer to complete the conversation.*1 A: Do you know _____?B: Yes. It's next to the bank.

A where is the museum

B where the museum is

C how can I get to the museum

NAME _____ DATE _____

- 2 A: I don't know _____ or not they can finish on time.
B: I think they can do it because they are hard workers!
- A if
B why
C whether
- 3 A: I wonder _____ I left my coat this morning.
B: It's probably in your car. You always take it off when you're driving.
- A how
B when
C where
- 4 A: Before we order the specials, we should ask the waiter how _____.
B: Good idea.
- A much cost
B much they are
C much do they cost
- 5 A: Do you remember who _____ that book?
B: It was Hemingway!
- A wrote
B did write
C to write
- 6 A: Could you tell me where _____ a cash machine?
B: Sure. There's one at the bank just around the corner.
- A find
B finding
C to find

NAME _____ DATE _____

READING

PART 3

Read the blog. Then choose the correct answers.

I'm back from my most recent travel experience: New York City. This was my first time in the United States and I wasn't sure what to expect after all the movies I had seen and the websites I had read, but there's one thing I know for sure: New York is an exciting—or some might say “crazy”—city.

My first day was full of this crazy excitement. I arrived at JFK airport, and got into the nearest taxi I could find. I told the driver where I was going and then I asked him a few questions, like if he knew any good places to eat in the city, but he completely ignored me. He just talked on his cell phone in a language I couldn't understand—for the whole ride! It wasn't all that bad, though—I got to look out at the view of the Manhattan skyline—all the tall buildings crowded next to each other—while we approached the city. Eventually I got to my hotel in lower Manhattan, and I paid the driver but I had forgotten to do something, and he sure was quick to remind me. He yelled at me, “Don't you know how to tip?!” Even after all the things I read, I still didn't know that I was supposed to tip taxi drivers. So I gave him a few extra dollars and went into the hotel.

That night, I had another sort of shocking experience. I wanted to take the subway to a neighborhood called Williamsburg, which is in Brooklyn, but I was staying across the river, in Manhattan. So, I got on the L train, and at first everything was fine. But at the stop in Manhattan before getting to Brooklyn, everyone got off the train and there was an announcement saying it was the last stop. I asked one of the people near me if I was on the right train, and he said yes, but that the L train often had problems, and that I should take a bus. So, I talked to one of the subway employees and asked her which bus to take. She said that she couldn't tell me how to get there since she was new on the job, and then she just ignored me. I had heard that New Yorkers were rude, but this was just mean!

So, I left the station and looked for a coffee shop so that I could connect to WiFi, but I didn't know where any coffee shops were. I approached a person on the street, and asked her for a good place. And after talking for a few minutes, instead of telling me where to go, she suggested that I join her and her friends for a drink at a nearby restaurant. Happy to have met a friendly person, I agreed.

We spent hours at that restaurant. It was a Spanish place that served food and we got some great things to eat. After that, we went to a bar and then we took a taxi to some sort of dance club. I had no idea where we were, but it was a lot of fun. Eventually, it got late and we all left the club. The people I met said that my hotel was only a few blocks away, and they pointed me in its direction. I walked there within a few minutes, and went right to bed, so that I could get up and do it again the next day.

And that was just my first night. I'll write about the rest of my week in my next post.

1 Which sentence is true about the writer's experience in the taxi?

- A She tipped the taxi driver too much.
- B The driver told her about the city.
- C She was able to see some good sights.

2 The writer did not know _____.

- A why the train didn't go to Brooklyn
- B the right train to take to Brooklyn
- C where to get the train to Brooklyn

3 The writer met people who didn't know _____.

NAME _____ DATE _____

- A the writer before that night
- B a place to go dancing in the city
- C where the writer was staying

LISTENINGPART 4

Listen to the podcast. Then choose the correct answers.

- 1 Dr. Bill Bagging's new book focuses on _____.
 - A tipping
 - B North American culture
 - C cultures from all over the world
- 2 Why does the host ask Dr. Bill Bagging about the meaning of popular science?
 - A She doesn't know what it means.
 - B Her listeners may not know what it means.
 - C She doesn't think anthropology is a true science.
- 3 Who is the audience for popular science books?
 - A students
 - B professors
 - C all people
- 4 In Bagging's book, Bagging does NOT describe _____.
 - A how to handle cultural differences when traveling
 - B his personal experience living in a different culture
 - C the history behind some different aspects of culture
- 5 According to the listening, which is true about tipping in the United States?
 - A Servers need tips because they do not get paid very much.
 - B Many restaurants do not allow servers to receive tips anymore.
 - C The idea of tipping at restaurants started in the United States.

NAME _____ DATE _____

SPEAKING

PART 5

Think about experiencing something for the first time. It could be your first day at university, or your first time in a different country. Discuss the experience using sentences with embedded questions. Consider the following points as a guide:

- What didn't you know before the experience?
- Did you ask people questions to help you? If so, what were those questions? What were the responses?
- What did you learn from the experience? That is, what do you know now that you didn't know before the experience?

WRITING

PART 6

A tourist is visiting your city, and he/she has some questions for you about the following:

- The location of an art museum
- Directions to the art museum
- Specialty foods in the city
- Good places to get those foods

Write a conversation between you and the tourist. Use at least four embedded questions in your conversation.

[illegible]

NAME _____ DATE _____

[illegible]