Read the interview. Then choose the correct answers.

- Host: You've taught English in several different countries, haven't you?
- Caroline: Four as a teacher, and one as a volunteer. It's hard to believe that was my livelihood before, especially compared to my current job, which is very ordinary.
- Host: You weren't familiar with any of the places you worked in before going there, were you?
- Caroline: No, I wasn't. I only knew I'd never been to those places before and that I wanted to learn more, and I knew I could earn money and gain work experience while traveling. So, I went! It sounds very bold, doesn't it?
- Host: It's definitely intimidating and different for a lot of people. But you probably have a very unique view of the world compared to the average American, don't you?
- Caroline: I suppose you could say that. I'm glad I spent time internationally, but I sometimes feel like I could've accomplished more for my career if I'd stayed in the U.S.. I sometimes think I shouldn't have traveled so much.
- Host: That's possible, but then you wouldn't have any material for the book you're writing, would you?
- Caroline: Probably not! You're right. Writing is new to me, but I want to write about my travels. My debut novel is based on my life overseas, so I can't regret my past, can I?
- Host: And the book you're writing isn't a part of your current job, is it?
