6 | MAKING DECISIONS

Every day we are faced with decisions. Some decisions are very important while others are not. If a decision has long term-effects, (that decision is usually important) (A decision is also important) if it affects many people. If a decision is important, (you should consider all the possible consequences before making a choice). Decisions made without careful consideration can often result in bad choices and regrets.

If you consider all the possible consequences, will you make the right choice?

Even if you try to consider all the possibilities, you can't always think of everything. But there are some ways to improve your decision-making skills. Consider these tips when you make decisions.

4.

5.

1. Make a list of the positive and negative consequences of each choice.
2. Consider the people who the decision will affect. What is best for them?
3. Try to think of similar situations. What decisions did you make in the past, and what happened as a result?
4. Avoid rushing into a decision. Take time to think it over.
5. Recognize any biases you may have about the choices you are considering.

I follow these guidelines when I'm faced with an important decision, and I have learned to
