READING

A Read the blog post about vacations with friends. Look at the words in bold and answer the questions. An example (0) has been done for you.

My name's Jim and I'm from Canada. My friends and I want to go on vacation together. The problem is we all like different things.

For example, Ramiro's my best friend. He's from New York but his family is from Florida. They have long vacations and he wants to go to a place near his grandparents' house. He doesn't want to go sightseeing, he just wants to relax in the sunshine.

Then there's Elena. She's a teacher. People always think she has long vacations but they're wrong. She can only have two weeks and would like to go to art galleries and museums. She hates lying on the beach all day and loves nice hotels.

There's also Chris. He works for a travel company and is busy in June, July and August. He doesn't like skiing. In fact he hates it so he tries to find somewhere that is hot in the winter to enjoy some heat when it's cold at home.

Kyoko is like me. We both enjoy playing sports. In the summer we like playing tennis and swimming in the ocean. She gets bored easily and hates doing nothing. She's really active and has a lot of energy. Her job doesn't pay well so she wants a cheap vacation – camping or something like that.

It has to be something we all like, the vacation I mean. But to be honest I think it's impossible!

- 0 Who does he refer to? Ramiro
- 1 Who does they refer to? _____
- 2 Who does She refer to? _____
- 3 What does it refer to? _____
- 4 Who does We refer to? _____
- 5 What does It refer to? _____
